@MCINTYRELIBRARY

WELCOME TO MCINTYRE, LILIANA!

Hello, my name is Liliana LaValle, and I am McIntyre Library's new Digital Learning and Instruction Librarian. Primarily, I answer reference questions in the Research Center and teach information literacy classes. I am the library liaison to American Indian Studies, Languages, and Latin American Studies. I'm very excited to be joining the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire community and to be working with such a welcoming and enthusiastic group of faculty, staff, and students.

I grew up in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and got my B.A. at the University of Michigan, where I majored in history and Spanish. I spent a year studying abroad at the University of Seville, Spain, and another year after college volunteering on organic farms in Ireland. I received my M.S. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in library and information science and spent the last four years as a librarian at a public library outside of Chicago.

As a new faculty member, I am interested in interactive digital learning, especially getting students involved in content creation (e.g. Wikipedia editing, crowd transcription projects, and video/audio productions). I love hands-on learning, and I am excited to be helping with McIntyre Library's Blugold Makerspace. If you haven't visited this awesome space in the library's lower level, I encourage you to check it out! I am also the new coordinator for our institutional repository, Minds@UW. I am a strong proponent of increasing public access to university research, and I am glad to see digital repositories like ours expanding visibility for faculty and student work.

When I am not at the library, I like to hike, bike, camp, cook, and travel. I also enjoy Irish dancing, archery, and snowshoeing. Let me know if you have any favorite trails or local restaurant suggestions. I also love random trivia, ridiculous puns, and all kinds of book recommendations, so please share these with me anytime.

Stop by my office (McIntyre Library 1001D) or email me at lavallev@uwec.edu to ask a question or just say hello. ■

UNIVERSITY of WISCONSIN - EAU CLAIRE

"To truly cherish the things that are important to you, you must first discard those that have outlived their purpose."

- Marie Kondo, The Life-Changing Magic of Tidying Up: The Japanese art of decluttering and organizing

By Jill Markgraf, markgrjs@uwec.edu

McIntyre Library is jumping on the Marie Kondo bandwagon. No, we are not limiting our collection to fewer than 30 books as she once recommended (and for which she was soundly rebuked by tweeting librarians and book lovers everywhere). We are, however, discarding that which is no longer useful or sparks joy so that we can focus on things that will.

Eliminating Overdue Fines

McIntyre Library is eliminating some overdue fines as a way of reducing barriers to library use. Students will no longer be assessed fines for overdue books and media in the main library collections. Exceptions to this new practice include fines on equipment, course reserve materials, items that have been requested by other library patrons, and replacement charges for items declared lost. This practice is already in place at the UW-Eau Claire - Barron County branch library and is being adopted by several other UW System libraries and area public libraries.

BOOKS ARE NOW FINE FREE

Video in the Classroom

As we bid a grateful adieu to the D2L learning management system and welcome its replacement, Canvas, our streamed video content is migrating from local to centralized UW System management. As a result, we must adhere to UW System-supported copyright guidelines regarding streamed video. That means changes in the way we acquire and make available video content. Copyright law does not always spark joy, especially in how it handles video content in an online or hybrid teaching environment. Instructors across campus increasingly incorporate video content into their curricula, and librarians are working closely with faculty and instructional designers to identify and arrange access to video needed in course instruction.

Financial Literacy Center

Marie Kondo tells us to express gratitude to that which has served us well but which is no longer useful, so it is with a bit of sadness and gratitude that we bid farewell to the family friendly study room (L101). This study space was developed over a decade ago for students with young children in tow. Over the years its use has steadily declined, and it is time to put the space to better use. The library is partnering with the student group Blu$Gold in developing a Financial Literacy Center by repurposing the room to provide them a space. This center aims to provide instruction and support for students in managing and understanding the myriad financial decisions that come with life.

Library Hours

Beginning this semester, McIntyre Library will no longer remain open 24 hours per day for the last two weeks of the semester. Our usage statistics no longer justify it. Instead, we will offer extended hours during finals week, closing at 2 a.m. Sunday, May 19, through Thursday, May 23. We are making this change out of concern for the well-being of our students—both those who study in the library and those who work here. We want to encourage our students to practice healthy study habits by getting some sleep. The 24-hour study area inside the Garfield Avenue entrance will still be available for students who want a place to study around the clock. We will also be adjusting our standard academic semester hours, shaving off some low-use early morning and late evening hours beginning in fall 2019.

Adjusting library hours to discontinue staffing during low-use times enables us to reallocate staff and student employee effort into expanding other services such as the Blugold Makerspace and special projects.

New Library Hours (beginning fall 2019)

Monday: 8 a.m. - 11 p.m.
Tuesday: 8 a.m. - 11 p.m.
Wednesday: 8 a.m. - 11 p.m.
Thursday: 8 a.m. - 11 p.m.
Friday: 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Saturday: 11 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Sunday: 11 a.m. - 11 p.m.

Marie Kondo writes, “The space in which we live should be for the person we are becoming now, not for the person we were in the past.” In keeping with Kondo, McIntyre Library aims to support what learners are becoming now rather than what they were in the past. ■

EYES TO THE (DIGITAL) SKIES

A Virtual Reality Lab is now available at your library, and beyond!

We've been hard at work adding new spaces and technology to assist all kinds of student learning styles and project types. One of our newest spaces is the Virtual Reality (VR) Lab, which was designed to explore virtual environments and to provide students and faculty the opportunity to work with innovative technology. The VR Lab was created by McIntyre Library and Student Senate's Information Technology Commission.

The room has a computer with an upgraded graphics card and the VR simulator itself. To manage applications and software, we have elected to use Windows 10 and Steam. The VR Lab is located in the library's lower level (L105) and can be checked out for two hours at a time at the Circulation desk.

Virtual Reality in the Classroom

McIntyre Library and Student Senate have consciously chosen the hardware to be semi-mobile. This allows us to bring the lab to classrooms around campus for demonstrations.

Virtual reality appears to lend itself well to single person/small group hands-on approaches. We are interested in developing partnerships with all disciplines to explore this technology and its implications in pedagogy and student research.

If you are interested in working with virtual reality in any way, please contact Hans Kishel at kishelhf@uwec.edu. ■

THE HARDWARE

Computer: Dell Precision 5820 Xenon CPU (3.60 GHZ), 8 GB Ram
NVIDIA GeForce GTX 1080 (8 GB Ram)

VR Simulator: HTC Vive

THE SOFTWARE

Current software installed:

Google Earth: Explore the world from totally new perspectives in virtual reality.

The Lab: Valve's room-scale VR experiments. Fix a robot, defend a castle, adopt a mechanical dog, and more.

Tilt Brush: Paint in 3D space with virtual reality.

Douarnenez VR: Visit the archaeological site of Plomarc'h Pella as well as the Norwegian galleon Anna Rosa.

The Body VR: Journey Inside a Cell: Tour inside a cell in an educational virtual reality experience.

3D Organon VR Anatomy: Learn human anatomy with over 4,000 realistic anatomical models/structures.

UPCOMING EVENTS HOSTED BY YOUR LIBRARY

WISCONSIN ASSOCIATION OF ACADEMIC LIBRARIANS CONFERENCE

Spring 2019 is a busy time for conferences, especially in Eau Claire. On April 18 and 19, Eau Claire will host the Wisconsin Association of Academic Librarians' (WAAL) annual conference at the Lismore Hotel. It will be the first time that WAAL has been in Eau Claire for their annual conference since the mid-1990s, and McIntyre Library is proud to be partnering with the conference to help host a session. More specifically, attendees will have the opportunity to help transcribe the collection of noted local ornithologist James Newman Clark whose papers are housed in Special Collections and Archives. We're really excited that people are willing to give their time to an effort that will have a direct impact on the research that students do at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire. ■

GAMES IN LIBRARIES CONFERENCE

In addition to the WAAL Conference in mid-April, McIntyre Library will be hosting the Games in Libraries Conference on May 31. This conference, conceived of by University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire librarians Hans Kishel, Eric Jennings, and Bryan Vogh (formerly of UW-Eau Claire and now at the Orbis-Cascade Alliance in Portland, OR), will bring librarians from across the United States together to talk about the intersection of libraries and games. It will include presenters and attendees who are public, academic, and special librarians and feature a wide range of topics from the learning science of games to using board games to engage students and improve career readiness. This is the first time the conference is being held, and it is being financially supported by the Wisconsin Library Services (WiLS) Ideas to Action Fund. ■

BLUGOLD MAKERSPACE UPDATE

In fall 2018, McIntyre Library opened the Blugold Makerspace, funded in part by the Information Technology Commission and the Student Office of Sustainability.

The makerspace is a place where people can come to create, to build, and to explore. We provide tools, expertise, community, and resources to help you create physical and digital objects. The space is equipped with many tools including 3D printers, soldering irons, power drills, and hand tools, as well as knitting needles, sewing machines, and much more.

Experienced library staff offer training and free workshops to learn how to use the tools or to learn a new skill. All workshops are free and open to students, staff, and faculty. Many of the workshops focus on sustainable practices, teaching participants how to repair, reuse, or repurpose commonly discarded items. We also welcome community support in the form of crafting supplies, gently used tools and equipment, and other items that can be re-purposed to broaden our supplies and lessen waste in the local community.

Whether Blugolds are making something new or taking something apart, the makerspace offers supplies, inspiration, and opportunities to solve problems or follow their imagination.

We encourage you and your students to attend our upcoming workshops. Please feel free to contact Dan Hillis (hillisdr@uwec.edu) for any questions regarding the makerspace and to discuss opportunities for the makerspace to partner with your courses. ■

MCINTYRE LIBRARY STUDENT WORKER NEWS

2018 LIBRARY STUDENT EMPLOYEE SCHOLARSHIP: EMMA MABIE

By Lark Keating-Hadlock, hadlocca@uwec.edu

Last fall we awarded our fourth annual $250 McIntyre Library Student Employee Scholarship to Emma Mabie. Emma has worked in the Special Collections and Archives department since her freshman year in 2016. With a major in integrated strategic communications and a double minor in history and political science, we look forward to Emma remaining with us until she graduates in 2021.

Emma stated in her application that being a student employee has provided her with a “unique college experience” not available to most other college students. She has had the opportunity to work with students and faculty, as well as the community at large, which has helped to improve her communication skills, her creative problem solving skills, and her research skills. Emma has also had the opportunity to study abroad, spending a semester in Winchester, England, where she was able to visit the Hampshire Archives and Local Studies. Emma states that she has gained insight that she “would not have realized if I wasn’t a student employee. Working in the library as a student employee has opened doors and given me experiences I will forever cherish.”

While the experiences gained working in McIntyre Library helps students prepare for their career, we are happy to help make college a little more affordable for Emma and future student employee recipients. When you plan your charitable contributions this year, please consider donating to our Student Employee Scholarship fund. You may make a donation online at <https://connect.uwec.edu/library> and select Student Employee Scholarship from the drop down menu. ■

Embedding video just got easier.

Canvas lets instructors search for and embed instructional videos from within the learning management system, including videos from the library's Films on Demand collection.

We hope to make more library content available.

The screenshot shows the Canvas LMS interface. At the top, there's a search bar with 'Week 7' entered. Below it, a toolbar contains various icons for editing and embedding. A red arrow points to the 'Embed' button in the toolbar. Below the toolbar, there's a section titled 'Films on Demand' with a search bar and filters. The search results show two videos: 'Jungle Biome' and 'Thriving Grassland Biome'. The 'Jungle Biome' video is selected, and its details are shown below. The 'Embed' button is circled in red.

LIBRARY AND STAFF NEWS: NOVEMBER 2018 - MARCH 2019

- We are sad to announce that Eunice E. Roehl, who worked for McIntyre Library in cataloging for 19 years until her retirement in 2002, has passed away. She is remembered fondly as a kind and humble coworker.
- The Instructional Media Center (IMC), in the lower level of the library, has been renamed the Educational Materials Center (EMC).
- Carrie Butler Becker, acquisitions and content coordinator, was honored by Feedspot when her book review blog, "Other Women's Stories," was chosen as a Top 25 Nonfiction Blog. She reviewed over 180 books last year, 83 of them nonfiction.
- Roxanne Backowski, electronic resources librarian, and her husband, Jeff Thielen, were married on Maui in November. Congratulations, Roxanne and Jeff!
- Kate Hinnant, head of instruction and communication, and Robin Miller, assessment and instruction librarian, published a book and a book chapter. The book, Making Surveys Work for Your Library, was released by the Libraries Unlimited imprint of ABC-CLIO on December 2018 and is written for librarians in public, school, academic, and special library contexts. The book covers everything from deciding to create a survey to using the results to make evidence-based decisions. Their chapter, titled "When Students Accept Their Corporate Overlords: Privilege and Position in Our Information Society," was published in the book Critical Approaches to Credit-Bearing Information Literacy Courses, edited by Angela Pashia and Jessica Critten.
- Eric Jennings, head of user services, and his wife, Danielle, recently went on their honeymoon to France and Spain.
